Reading: Veterans Day & The Wall

This week, we will focus on nonfiction and fiction texts about Veterans Day. Students will make learn more about sequence (order) of events from last week, as well as how text and graphic features help readers to better understand the text. We will also begin preparing for our Veterans Day assembly on 11/14.

Math:

Properties of Multiplication & Division

This week, students will begin relating multiplication to division. They will develop the understanding that division is the process of finding the unknown factor in multiplication. We will use the array model to help demonstrate this. In addition, students will learn about the commutative property that states the order of the factors does not matter. For example, $4 \times 2 = 8$ is the same as $2 \times 4 = 8$.

Science: Plants

This week, we will learn about how plants survive by adapting, as well as review the life cycle of the flower! Finally, students will observe their graphs and observations throughout this unit. ☺
